Summary:

We are searching for the next camp director of Ridge Top Bible Camp, a 150-acre camp located in Ridgley, Missouri. The surrounding area is home to ranchers, farmers, and agricultural workers. The closest big city is Bentonville, Arkansas. This is a great opportunity for the right individual to help a growing camp reach its full potential as an outreach leader within the local rural community!

Currently, the camp provides summer programming for children, teenagers, and church groups. Volunteers run Saturday day camps for kids.

Only half of the camp property is being used at this time, and construction is underway to expand the camp accommodations and recreational facilities. The current camp director is willing to train and onboard the new director. A unified, supportive board of directors and experienced volunteers will also support the new director's transition into leadership.
